Casa D'Angelo

Written by Ben Stewart

Directed by Ben Stewart

Technical Direction by Adam Bayer

Synopsis: Set in an upscale Italian restaurant on a Friday night, Casa D'Angelo follows three concurrent disasters slowly unfolding through the evening: A young woman, Florence, finds that the man who invited her out had asked her on a double date, bringing another woman and leaving her dateless, while, one table over, a man named James struggles to impress his uninterested and unfaithful wife on the night of their sixth anniversary, and, all the while, he is under attack by members of the restaurant's staff, who seem to have him confused with someone else. A very funny and very strange play, it takes a look at the ways that people try and fail to communicate with one another.
